Based in Cleveland, LDA Architects' status in the industry is built by its multi-skilled members. Working on different tasks such as construction administration, design, and project management, the firm's talented staff is a huge contributor to the firm's success for over two decades. Established in 1995, the firm is a master in urban redevelopment, residential, and commercial projects. It is an expert in historic preservation, renovation, and adaptive reuse as well. Because of its wide range of expertise, the firm has received many awards and features. It has graced Billboard and Properties Magazine and is a 2017 Weatherhead 100 Award Winner.

With a diverse client base, LDA Architects has handled several multifamily projects. This includes the La Collina Apartments in Little Italy, Cleveland. This luxury apartment building has five floors housing 32 modern units and retail spaces. Parking has been incorporated into the design to provide convenience for its residents. With a total square footage of 77,900, the building is designed using sustainable practices, helping it achieve a LEED Silver Certification. For creating a structure that improves the University Circle neighborhood, the firm has received the 2020 Building the Circle Award.

Over the years, the firm has produced smart designs thanks to its staff of architects, interior and landscape designers, and historic preservation specialists. This staff is guided by founder and company president Dominick Durante, Jr. Durante is a member of the AIA and the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB). He uses three decades of professional experience to keep the firm ahead of the game. Durante is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati.
